S. J. Randall was the first speaker. In the course of his remarks he commended the Euton tariff commission bill which had passed the senate and would surely be acted upon in the house next December. He added: "I want, in this connection, to say a few words to the manufacturers of the country, and to assure them that they need have no apprehension of injury to their interests in this connection. The highest annual yield from customs duties during and since the war was over $216,000,000 in 1872. The amount necessary now is generally returned at $135.000,000 and I assert that this amount could be raised in an intelligent and basiness-like manner upon articles imported which come in competition with light articles manufactured in this country without giving adequate protection to our industries. There may be exceptional industries which may require greater care, but they are few. He said that many labor organizations were "greenbackers," but that the order had never been committed to an indorsement of that theory, and that the choice of a candidate at the September convention would be between Hancock and Garfield. The committee arrived in this city this morning to make arrangements for the holding of a convention and to consult with the committees of the two dominant parties. The general received them in his usual cordial manner, but politely refused to express any view on the subject proposed. He gave them a letter of introduction to ex-Senator Barnum, chairman of the democratic committee. The gentlemen of the committee refused to give their personal preference for the candidates, but said that after consultation with the two committees a report will be made to the convention in September, and the matter thoroughly discussed They then left armed_with General Hancock's letter to seek the democratic headquarters. handsomely trimmed and festooned for the occasion.

Among the prominent strangers present was General J. B. Weaver, presidential nominee of the greenback party.

The convention was called to order by Michael Riley, of Wheeling, chairman of the state executive committee, who named Hon. J. J. Davis, of Clarksburg, for temporary chairman. The usual committees were appointed, and the convention took a recess to allow them to do their work. The convention reassembled in the afternoon, and the committee on resolutions submitted a platform which indorses the platform and principles adopted by the national convention at Cincinnati, and reaffirms allegiance to time-honored principles. It reggizes the faithful discharge of the daties of state efficers, and points with pride to the general peace and prosperity of the state. It declares emity to all the monopolies, and particularly declares against that system of legislation which tends to discriminate in favor of the railroads and against the people. It remits the proposed constitutional amendments to the unbiased judgment of the people, and declares against the practice of instructing the delegates, whereby the county, state and national conventions are packed for a particular candidate.

The girl was present. Twelve persons were then picked out from among the prisoners by the girl as having assaulted her, she passing around among them in company with District Attorney Kline. On cross examination her story was about the same as in the chief examination. Several showmen testified, corroborating the testimony of the girl. All were then discharged, except the welve who were identified by the irl.

THE STATE CAMPAIGN. SOME EDITORIAL CALCULATIONS.

Colquitt Gains Clayton—The Roll Closing up-The Work of Next Saturday—The Majerity Rule Agais—A Call Upon the At-torney General for Facts.

As there were very few counties that acted on yesterday—only Clayton and Oco-nee—we give most of our space to-day to the tables as made up by the Telegraph and Messenger and the Savannah News. It will be seen that these tables agree very nearly with THE CONSTITUTION'S table-and the that our table is more nearly correct than any other, though, of course, nothing but the vote of the convention itself can settle

It will be seen that the Telegraph and Messenger, a Hardeman paper, thinks Col-quitt will go in with "about 215 votes on the first ballot." Our estimate is that he will go in with 228 anyhow, and our belief is that he will go in with over 230. In other words, we do not believe he will miss get-ting two-thirds of the whole convention on the first ballot by more than five or ten he will carry it-in our opinion. votes at the outside.

In advance of the tables we publish our special dispatches, giving the result of the CLAYTON FOR COLOUITT, TWO TO ONE.

JONESBORO, July 28.—Clayton county has elec-ted Colquitt delegates by a vote of about two to one. Two tickets were run, one being a fusion anti-Colquitt ticket. The Colquitt ticket led from ANOTHER DISPATCH.

JONESBORO, July 28.—Clayton county polled about 600 votes—Colquitt's majority about 150. C. W. H. THE MONROE DELEGATION.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.
FORSYTH, July 28.—The following named gen tlemen compose the Monroe delegation to the gu-bernatorial convention: G. A. Cabaniss, J. T. Crowder, J. M. Darden, J. H. Turner, W. T. May-nard, J. H. Jossey, E. T. Pharr, J. W. Hooten, J. H. Sutton, E. H. Walker, J. S. Jossey, and E. B.

OCONER FOR COLQUITT.

We publish the above with pleasure. There are eight or ten votes that are more or less doubtful, and there is nothing but personal information by which to locate them. We believe that we have them properly located our contemporary thinks not. The fu-ure must decide which is right. As to Wilkinson, we respectfully submit that it is "not certain to vote for Hardeman." Our nformation is that there will be a compronise, or two contesting delegations from that county. We are also positive that Camden and Faunin will vote for Governor

Colquitt on the first ballot-our informati on this point being direct. SAVANNAH NEWS TABLE.

We publish below the count of the Savannah News. The News explains itself so clearly the apparent and real difference be tween our table and its table that there is not much for us to say. We can assure our contemporary, however, that "Chatha Charlton and Effingham" will not cast their votes for Lester. He may get a fraction of this vote, but the majority of them will be for Colquitt:

We publish elsewhere a table compiled by THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION which makes the status of the deigates so far elected to the gubernatorial convention, to be held in Atlanta on the 4th of August, as follows: For Colquitt, 283%; for Hardeman, 44; for Lester, 33%; for Gartreit, 16%; for Warner, 3; anti-Colquitt, 1%; doubtful, 7. This table, THE CONSTITUTION says, it has prepared with great care and affirms that it is as correct as possible for such a table to be made before the convention actually assembles. We have also table. The Constitutions says, it has prepared with great care and affirms that it is as correct as possible for such a table to be made before the convention actually assembles. We have also prepared a table, which has been made from time to time according to the best information we can gather from our exchanges and special telegrams, which, at present, loots up as follows: For Colquitt, 187%; for Lester, 68%; for Hardeman, 46; for Garriell, 15; for Underwood, 4; for Warner, 2, and anti-Colquitt, 16.

The difference is 16 votes. In our table we give the 4 votes of Washington to Lester, 68% of the convention of Governor Colquitt. In summer held in that county, the first of which instructed for Lester and the latter for Colquitt. Inasmuch as the friends of Governor Colquitt liege that due notice was not given of the first meeting, and that its action was not a fair expression of the will of the democracy of that county, and as the Colquitt delegates will be in the majority in the convention, it is probable that they will seat the delegates from Washington favorable to him. We have also given the countess of Camden and Fannin to Underwood, but as he is not a candidate before the convention for governor, these four votes will likewise be probably cast for Colquitt, as claimed by The Constitution.

Lord Hartington confirmed the report that part of General Burrows's force consisted of a battery of English artillery and a battalion of the 66th British infantry. He said he did not know what force General Primrose had at Candahar independently of General Burrows's brigade. He thought that it probably was not over two thousand strong, but when General Burrows's brigade was detached some of General Phayre's troops were ordered to reinforce Candahar. If this reinforcement was effected General Primrose's force would perhaps exceed 2 000. Lord Hartington stated further that he had received a dispatch from the vicercy of Indiastating that General Burrows had vacated his cantonments at Candahar and retired to the citadel. Reinforcements are already on the way and will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible. Additional forces will be sent from India. It may be necessary to anticipate the usual season's relief from England.

Another dispatch has also arrived from the governor of Bombay, who says: "We can furnish for emergency three batteries of a regiment of British cavalry, half a regiment of native cavalry and two regiments of British and six regiments of native infantry, besides the batteries and two battalions in Sciode."

General Phayre telegraphs: "Fragments of British and six regiments of native infantry, besides the batteries and two battalions in Sciode."

The wires are now cut. Phayres and Sandeman propose to abandon the Nari line and concentrate in the Bolan pass route unless strong reinforcements are immediately available.

The viceroy, replying to an inquiry as to what troops Burrows had, says: Horse artillery I and B, a company of sappers, six companies of the 66th, two squadrons of Scinde horse, one regiment of Bombay cavalry and the First and Thirteenth native infantry. Nothing more is known as telegraph is interrupted.

It was after eight o'clock when he returned to the hall, feeling very tired. He rested a few minutes in the front parlor, and then ascended to the auditorium and sat on the platform fanning himself. He was stared at by a score of spectators, and there was an expression of patient suffering. His face was wan, but the hand with which he fanned himself did not look very thin. Some of the spectators who had been silently staring at him bowed on quitting the hall, and the doctor returned the courtesy. He had felt like going to bed as soon as he reached the hotel, but visitors detained him.

At nine o'clock the doctor decided to go up stairs to bed. He walked up with a firm step, and lay down on a cot with his clothes. In a few minutes he asked for water. When it was measured and handed to him he was fast asleep. Ten minutes before ten he awoke, took some water and undressed for the night.

This seemed to weaken him, and he vomited. He was restless for half an hour. He had his cot moved several times. Then he apparently went to sleep, and at midnight was still quiet.

The physicians think the doctor was somewhat unfavorably affected yesterday by the hot weather. They say that the vomiting, with nothing in his stomach, is very weakening, and is an unfortunate symptom.

In the American caucus the different members of a party neet together to decide upon a policy of legislation, and this policy receives the nited support of all who enter the caucus Ordinarily, it is not a very healthful method, but it has great attractions for the politicians. In England, the caucus is a means of bringing electors to the polls. In our own glorious republic, no caucus is necessary to bring electors to the polls. Panning Sectional Hate.

New York Times.

The contest is not between one section and another; it is between unitionalism in the north and sectionalism in the south, and it does not cease, because the north will not give up its nationalism and the south sullenly and obstinately clings to its sectionalism. What gives this contest political significance now is not simply that the national spirit of the free north detests the narrow sectionalism of the south, the off-spring of three generations nourished with the barbarism of slavery, and is disposed to fight it for the release of its victims; but it is that this sectionalism amendation of the south, the off-spring of three generations nourished with the government of the nation, a calamity than which none greater could be imagined at this stage of our history. If the democratic action and the stage of the nation, were it, in fact, throughout what it is in most northern states, there would be no such serious apprehension of the consequences of its ascendency now nears, and can only mean, the ascendency now nears, and can only mean, the ascendency in the nation of the ruling parity of the south, the control of that now controls the governments of the old slaves states. In place of a nation supreme over all sections, in an imperfect measure even that which stands apart in suller solidity averse to submission, we should have a nation ruled by a section, and that the very one tnat so hated and tried to destroy it.

I have soid 300 or 400 bottles of it at retail, and have had personal supervision of several cases in which it was used, and in every instance it has given entire satisfaction. Dr. Hardeman reports a case of leprosy in his practice—subject, a negro woman on the plantation of Mr. J. Hegan, near this place. We understand that Mrs. Corley left Madison on Friday to join her husband at Mount Airy, leaving her children with relatives at that place. Macon Telegraph. Some weeks since we were informed of a terble crime which had been committed in or near Crawford county, the victim of which was a lady eighty years of age, who now lies at the point of death from injuries then received. The particulars of this occurrence were so revolting as to be almost incredible, and we make but the bare to mention of the affair. Vengeance, however, did not slumber, but him close upon the trail of the flend, and finally overtook him. It seems that she had been engaged in vashing, and had a fire under a wash-pot. Upon eeing the storm coming, it is supposed she at-empted to put the fire out, fearing that the wind night set the premises on fire, and went to the ubs for water for that purpose. An old lady, Mary Jones, of this county, was ound dead near her doorsteps on Friday morn-ng last. She was about sixty years of age and wed alone, having some negro tenants near by on her place. She was preparing to have a new spot cleared for the new house, and let the fire get out, which excited the old lady very much, and from exhaustion she fainted, and was taken to the house by some negroes who had run to assist in stopping the fire, and one of them, a negro woman, remained with her that night until she appeared to have ully recovered, and had cooked and eat her super. The next morning she was seen up early as usual feeding her horse and attending to her do-nestic duties. After breakfast the negro man her place walked up to the yard to see her on some business; not seeing her about the yard he called her, but she not answering he walked near the house, looked in towards the fire-place, saw the griddle on the fire with bread on it and the table having the appearance of just being left from breakfast. Nussbaum & Dannenberg.

This firm may be justly called the pioneers of modern enterprise in Macon. Commencing business in a safe way, anply backed by sufficient capital, and with requisite energy, they soon built up a business that soon outsir pped their competitors, and as an evidence of this fact we point to the elegant structure now occupied by them on the corner of Cherry and Third streets. No other building in Macon presents so many of the points of beauty, elegance and convenience, nor the features of a modern storebouse. In this capacious building is carlied on one of the largest wholesale trades in Georgia. There is no line of dry goods or notions, or anything coming under the head of "something to wear" that is not sold by them, and they possess facilities for fitting out storts from cellar to attle that few houses in the south e joy. The firm is of the staunchest in Macon, and its integity is unquestioned. The trade extends over a vast territory, and in no quarter of the state can it be said that the house of Nussbaum and Dannenberg is not known.

They know the advantages and great benefits to be derived from a judicious use of printer's ink, and hence their great popularity and success.

and hence their great popularity and success.

Atlanta's Lumber Business.

The receipts of lumber in Atlanta this year are four times what they were last year. The cause of this is attributable to the vast amount of buildings now going on m Atlanta. A large proportion of the lumber coming in is furnished by the mills along the line of the Macon and Brunswick ralinoad, while the Cartersville and Van Werr road is sending many cars loads to Atlanta daily. The firm of Waddy & Co., one of the most extensive in this line in the state, has established a lumber yard in Atlanta for the purpose of handling all kinds of lumber suitable for building purposes. Mayor Calhoun is in receipt of a letter from a gentleman who where to know how it will pay to go into the lumber business in Atlanta upon an extensive scale. Any day forty or fifty or loads of lumber can be seen laying near the side track of the Central railroad, where it has been thrown from the cars.

Jack & Holland.

The above old established and enterprising firm are the largest candy and cracker manufacturers in the south. They also keep the larges stock or canned goods, pickles, jellies, tens and all kinds of confectionery, fancy groceries, etc. of any house south of Baltimore, and always offer the greatest inducements to buyers. The wholesale business of the house has stead ily increased, until now it extends all over the southern states.

dy increased, until now it southern states.

Mr. James R. Ellis, who has for several years traveled for this house, will hereafter be found at the store in charge of the wholesale department, and will be glad to meet his many customers, of to give their orders his personal attention. Water, Water, Water.

A young man, claiming to be an operative at the cotton factory, called on us yesterday and stated that the water given the hands at the factory is not fit to drink. He said that great dissulfsaction existed smorg the operatives in consequence of the fact that the company does not allow them to leave the factory yard to get good water, but expects them to drink from a tank containing water several days old, and dashed with dead rats and other disagreeable things. The young man went on to remark that unless good water was furnished the operatives in the very near future, thirteen families, would most certainly proceed to strike.

A Constitution governor-maker buzzed Na Wooding at a late hour last night and learned with great gratification that not a single state case vas registered at his hotel yesterday and only one ity boarder was put in her little cell last night, at is a firstrate landlord and never fails to take tre of his guests. settled handsome incomes upon his two younger brothers, Lord Alexander and Lord Berkeley Paget is one of the most popular of English noblemen. He married Mrs. Wodehouse on the 20th of last month. This lady was Miss Minnie King, of Sandhills, Ga, and she was married in 1872 to the Hon. Henry Wodehouse, a brother of the Earl Kimberly, who is a member of the present Gladstone government. Her husband died but little more than a year after their marriage, and Mrs. Wodehouse took up her residence in London. The marquis of Anglesey is the fourth wearer of the title won at Waterloo by the dashing Lord Uxbridge. His father, the second marquis of Anglesey, was the older brother of Lord Alfred Paget, whose son, Captain Arthur Paget, two years ago married Miss Minnie Stephens, of New York. The marquis, who is in his forty-fifth year, has already been twice married. His second wife died three years ago, leaving him one son, now a child of five years old, who wears the cour.esy title of earl of Uxbridge. The estates of the present marquis lie in three English counties and in Anglesea, and are set down on the domesday book at an annual rental of £110, 598. His castle on the I le of Anglesey is one of the finest residences in England. The marquis belongs to the prince of Wales' set. Some years ago his brother, Lord Henry Paget, married in Paris Miss Boydich, an Australian, and a double first cousin of the late Mrs. Bravo, the heroine of "The Balkan Mystery." His sister, Ludy Florence, in jitting the wealthy Chaplin, turfist, for the marquis of Hastings, some years ago, scandalized aristocratic society. Closing Quotation of Stocks and Bonds

NEW YORK, July 28. -The stock market

NEW YORK, July 28.—The stock market opened strong and buoyant, the prices advanced 34 to 234 per cent., Denver and Rio Grande, St. Paul and Omaha, Lake Shore, Telegraph, Coal and Granger shares leading in the advance. During the afternoon some holders realized on a portion of their stocks, causing a decline of 24 per cent, in New Jersey Central and a reaction of 34 to 24 per cent in the general list. In the late dealings the market became firm again

A Shooting Party.

DANVILLE, VA., July 28.—In Patrick county, last Friday, Pink Dehart met Ames Walvine on the road on horseback with Mrs. Dehart behind him. An altereation ensued between the men, ending by Dehart shooting Walvine with a revolver through the forelead and neck, killing him instantly. Dehart then proceeded to Patrick Court-House and surrendered himself to the officers of the law. Improper relations between Walvine and Dehart's wife have been heretofore suspicioned by Dehart. Eighteen Million Dollars To Be Moved From the Golden Gate to Philadeiphia. tandard silver dollars in the San Francisco mint and sub-treasury, amounting to about $18,000,000, the secretary of the treasury is contemplating the removal of a portion of it contemplating the removal of a portion of it to the east. At the rate of transportation allowed by law the cost would average about $20,000 for every $2,000,000 and the secretary proposes to invite proposals for the transportation of these silver dollars in order to secure, if possible, more favorable terms, the reason of the excessive accumulation of these dollars at San Francisco is the small demand that exists on the western coast for this kind of circulating medium. The people do not take kindly to the silver dollars as gold is more plentiful and more convenient. At Philadelphia, where the greater portion of the $2,000,000 monthly quota is coined, there is orly about 1,000,000 of these dollars stored in the mint. The remainder is taken up rapidly in circulation kissing Another Man's Wife.

Kingston, N. C., July 28—Some weeks since, Stephen C. Spence, a young former of this place, met Mrs. M. E. Waller in the road. Mrs. Waller is one of the handsomest ladies in Woodington township, and Spence, after bowing to her, said she must kiss him. The lady indiguantly hurried on, whereupon Spence followed her, and, despite her struggles, kissed her. She made complaint to her husband and Spence was arrested He was tried and sentenced to thirty days in the county jail for kissing another man's wife. of these dollars stored in the mint. The remainder is taken up rapidly in circulation and sent throughout the country. But a small portion of the million purchased by the treasury department each month is delivered at San Francisco tor coinage, one reason being that the bids for delivery at this point are not so favorable, and again the demand for silver dollars on the Pacific coast is very slight. If the secretary succeds in his plan of transporting these dollars from the west, a portion will be taken to Chicago and the remainder brought on to Philadelphia. In spite of the predictions to the contrary the silver dollar is increasing in circulation and is in great demand in all business centers where their utility as change is recognized.

The Hartford Robbery, The Hartford Rebbery.

Hartford, Conn., July 28.—Besides the sum of $8,500 in cash stolen from the Middletown bank Tuesday, over $20,000 in good bonds and $40,000 in North Carolina state bonds, on which not much value is put, were taken by the thieves. The cash belonged to the bank, and the bonds to individuals who had deposited them in the vault.

Destroyed by Fire. CHICAGO, July 28.—A Quincy, Ill., special to the Journal says that a fire to-day destreyed the Phausichmidt planing mill, Gardner's governor works, Bennett & Duffy's foundry, Harris Beebe's tobacco works and several other buildings. The loss will exceed $100,000.
